WASHINGTON CURIOS Possession of Hartford' Woman-Priceless, If Genuine.

Mrs. Fannie A. Johnson of No. 168
Blue Hills avenue, is the possessor of several relics of Washington which if proved to be genuine would bring a high figure from antiquarians, says The Hartford Courant. As it is, the relics are undoubtedly of great age and Mrs. Johnson has good reasons for believing them to be genuine and for prizing them highly. These relics cansist of a waistcoat said to have been made by the mother of George Washington, a neck scarf worn by itm and several sets of linen ruffles from his shirts.

These articles, with others, it is said, were captured by the British when a baggage train fell into their hands, near Chad's Ford in the fail of 1777, and the first balcony were well filled. The stage was banked with potted plants and flowers. The background was a large American flag: a smaller one was suspended at one side of the stage and the flag of the commonwealth at the others. Mrs. Fannie A. Johnson of No. 168

These articles, with others, it is said, were captured by the British when a baggage train fell into their hands, near Chad's Ford in the fall of 1777. The exact date cannot be proven, but is thought to have been between the cate of the battle of the Brandywine and Washington's going into winter quarters at Valley Forse. Mrs. Johnson has an old letter, which claims that the raid on the baggage train was made November 7, 1777, but whether this is correct she is unable to say. At the time of the raid the stratuating class marched down the stratuating class marched down the stratuating class marched down the that the raid on the baggage train was made November 7, 1777, but whether this is correct she is unable to say. At the time of the raid the Fritish officers kept such things as met with their fancy, and General William M. Lord came into possession of these relies and sent them to his bome in England. At his death they became the property of his son, William M. Lord, who shortly afterwards emigrated to America, settling in Chester, Conn., where he died some 70 years ago.

Every effort will be made to save the injured arm, though amputation may be necessary.

PROHIBITION WAVE

Sweeping Over Town-Not a Case o Intoxication Before City Court Dur-

A wave of voluntary prohibition is evidently sweeping over Putnam. Not a case has come before the city court on the charge of intoxication during June. It is also remarked that the complete record of the court for this month consists of only two cases, both for alleged use of abusive language. Here is a record of law-abiding liv-ing that few towns can equal. There has been no particular or extraordi-nary effort made to bring about this highly satisfactory condition of affairs. It just happened.

den Lewis Monday evening in the town hall, was attended by a fair sized gathering.

The first matter taken up was that from the invitation committee of Norwich, inviting the borough to participate in the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary celebration on July 5 and 5. It was voted to accept the invitation with thanks and show a willingness to participate as far as possible. The next business was to see what action would be taken relative to increasing the fund already started to bring about the erection of a soldiers' monument. Remarks were made by Warden Lewis, Hon. J. W. Payne, George A. Ross of Lisbon and others, a letter being also read from J. W. Miller, who was unable to be present. Mr. Ross offered to give $100 to start the movement, while Warden Lewis piedged $50.

It was voted to appoint a general committee to see to soliciting funds and to take other steps toward the erection of a suitable monument. The committee includes Warden Ira F. Lewis, George A. Ross, B. R. Gardner, J. H. McCarthy, William Johnstone, Hon. A. M. Brown, ex-Warden George Labonne, Jr., Dr. Philome Gingras, James T. Widbur, Arba Browning, A. G. Brewster and J. W. Miller.

Compressed Air and May Sue Now. Wallace Neubert, who runs a barber shop in Thomaston, is having his hands full nowadays. He recently installed a compressed air machine, the only one in Litchfield county, and nearly everybody in town goes in to "get blowed." A gentleman recently asked to have it turned on him and as he only had six hairs on his head, teing bald for years, Mr. Neubert heslinted, but finally was prevailed upon, and when he finished the six hairs that had been the pride of the owner for six years, were gone. A suit for damages may follow.
